winning the combined title after victories in the downhill and slalom. Her first of three World Cup victories came in March 1991; Parisien was an outstanding three-event skier. At U.S. Championship events she won four titles, three in combined and one in Super G. She made three Olympic teams and won medals at almost every level including from U.S. Junior Olympics to the World Championships, a silver medal in 1993, before retiring in 1999.

Trace Worthington, showed early promise in freestyle skiing as a teenager when he won the aerials event at the 1986 World Junior Championships.

Named to the U.S. National Team in 1989, he won his first of 37 World Cup competitions in 1990 in LaClusaz, France.

Five years later, he returned there to claim aerials and combined gold medals at the World Championships - still the only time a skier has won two golds at one freestyle Worlds.

Unfortunately, that was the culmination of a career that ended prematurely because of injuries.

In that brief time, however, he won 11 U.S. titles, competed on two Olympic teams and was the World Cup overall and combined champion twice and the aerials champion once.

As a competitor "Trace the Ace", with Jonny Moseley, was a leading force in freestyle skiing.

He had 79 podium finishes in World Cup and World Championship competition. Twice an Olympian (1992 and 1994), he followed in the footsteps of his grandfather who competed at the 1912 Olympics in Track and Field.

In a move from tradition, the official Induction Ceremony will take place at the Snowsports Industries America (SIA) annual tradeshow in Las Vegas on January 22-24, 2007.
